

Ian Murphy

Managing Director

As our Managing Director, Ian has overall accountability for the performance of our business and has played an instrumental role in creating and establishing Foodbuy in the UK. Prior to becoming Managing Director, Ian was our Chief Procurement Officer. In this role he headed up our strategic sourcing and category development teams who negotiate tenders with our suppliers and maximise value for our clients by focusing on quality, service, innovation and price.

Working with some remarkable people and buying amazing products and services for our clients is what motivates Ian. It's these products and services that we use to demonstrate to clients what we can do for them and the value we can bring to their businesses. A big sports fan, he is married with two young daughters.
